City report finds Victoria Inn 'unsafe and uninhabitable'

By PEGGY VLEREBOME
Special to The Courier

The owner of Victoria Inn has until May 23 to repair 30 code violations or move everyone out of the building, which city building inspector Mark Johnson found to be "unsafe and uninhabitable."

Owner Mark E. Nay can request a hearing before the city's Board of Public Works if he disagrees with the findings of Johnson's inspection April 17, Johnson wrote in his report. Nay received the report Monday, according to the report.

Nay said Wednesday that he was surprised by the number of violations but said "I suppose" all can be fixed in 10 days. He said the inn would not have violations against it except that a resident was stabbed by a non-resident a few days before Johnson's inspection.

Johnson said in his report that his findings included an overflowing toilet, exposed wiring and trip hazards on the inside, and paint and windows that needed work on the outside.

Neighbors and others have long complained about the appearance of Victoria Inn, 801 E. Main St., and the behavior of some residents. The police have been there hundreds of times in recent years, mostly for drug-related incidents.

Nearby residents affected by Victoria Inn told their stories to a city council meeting May 10. They told of finding drug syringes on their doorsteps and on their lawns, squatters sleeping in their yards and garages, death threats, and, the last straw when an inn resident was severely stabbed in his room May 3.

Johnson said there was a delay between his inspection and Nay receiving the report because he, Johnson, was gone for a week and because Johnson and one of the city's attorneys, Jason Pattison, were carefully documenting the violations. International codes, national codes, state laws and codes, and a city ordinance were cited in Johnson's report.

Some violations were cited more than once because they came under different regulations.

Johnson said he only recently learned that he has authority to enforce the codes, laws and ordinance inside structures. He predicted that he will be flooded with complaints about code violations inside residences, "but it's right" that enforcement is possible, he said Wednesday.

Jefferson County adds magistrate to judicial branch

By TALI HUNT

Former Jefferson County Prosecutor Nancy Jacobs will begin July 1 in the newly created position of magistrate for Jefferson County.

The selection of Jacobs, who was Jefferson County prosecutor from 1995 to 2002, and has been Switzerland County chief deputy prosecutor since 2009, was announced Tuesday night by Superior Court Judge Michael Hensley during a joint meeting of the county commission and the county council.

Hensley and Jefferson County Circuit Court Judge DJ Mote said they were excited to add Jacobs to the judicial branch.

Hensley and Mote talked about different ways in which the addition of a magistrate will help the local courts, including the possibility of running three courts at once instead of two and using the third courtroom on the top floor of the courthouse.

They explained that they had been talking with Jacobs about her role in the judicial branch and are working on a finalized plan. Some of the possibilities they've discussed are having Jacobs handle initial hearings for cases involving recently-charged criminal defendants or CHINs (child in need of services).

"I'm honored to serve Jefferson County in the newly created magistrate position. I look forward to working with Judge Hensley and Judge Mote," Jacobs said.

She is a Jefferson County native and a graduate of Madison Consolidated High School, Indiana University and the Indiana University School of Law.

From 2003 to 2006 she practiced general civil law with Jenner & Auxier in Madison before being appointed by the Indiana Supreme Court to serve for five months as the Washington County Prosecutor during the absence of the elected prosecutor. Jacobs also served as the chief deputy prosecutor in Scott County in 2007-2008.

Jacobs said she believes her past experience as a lawyer, an administrator and a public servant will allow her to make significant contributions to the efforts of Hensley and Mote "to ensure that the citizens of this county are served by and have access to an effective and efficient judiciary."

Jefferson County was one of three Indiana counties whose requests for an additional judicial officer, a

Seeking input on Clifty Drive

By TALI HUNT

The City of Madison started gathering public comments this week for a Stellar Community project designed to enhance the Clifty Drive corridor.

More than 15 visuals showing plans for various sections of Clifty Drive were on display for the public to see at Clifty 6 Fire Station Monday and Wednesday.

The $2.5 million project will include sidewalks along the southside of Clifty Drive from Michigan Road to Lanier Drive, a sidewalk along the north side of Clifty Drive from Harry Nichols Drive (McDonald's) to Cragmont Street (Frisch's Big Boy), street crossings at existing traffic signals and additional lighting.

The Stellar funds will cover $500,000 of the project's budget and will be used toward the portion of the project from Michigan Road to Wilson Avenue, said Nicole Schell with the City of Madison. The Indiana Department of Transportation will pay the larger, $2 million portion.

The first open house event took place Monday at the Clifty 6 Fire Department and the second was Wednesday. Some of the comments provided included ensuring crosswalks had audible signals, making the sidewalks wider to accommodate golf cart traffic and requests for sidewalks in other sections north of Clifty Drive.

Schell explained that they chose to place sidewalks along the south side of Clifty because of property lines — right-of-way— and the smaller grade. She said this project is just the beginning and the goal will be to have sidewalks all along both sides of the corridor and to add more opportunities to cross Clifty in the future.

A PDF of the displays is available at www.stellarmadison.org and feedback can be sent to preservation@madison-in.gov

Jail land site tests to start

By TALI HUNT

Site testing will begin at a piece of land near the former Robus Leather building on J A Berry Lane, which is being looked at for a new Jefferson County Jail, after approval from the county council and county commissioners Tuesday evening.

To begin the testing, county officials had to sign a purchase agreement with current land owner, Tony Hammock. The county will decide how much of the more-than-80-acre lot at 1106 West Hutchinson Lane to purchase after the testing is complete.

Commissioners David Bramer and Robert Little reminded the council that the site may not be suitable to build on, and they won't know this until after the results are back from the engineers. In case the land is not suitable, the county has a 90-day due diligence period during which they can pull out of the agreement and not be out any money.

Counsel for Hammock and the county have negotiated three different costs for three different land purchase options: $330,000 for 30 acres; $400,000 for 50 acres; and $660,000 for the full 87.848 acres.

A representative from DLZ, the firm contracted to do the site testing, told the council he expected some preliminary results within 30 days of starting. He said the team should be able to start in the next week or so.

In April, the county council approved earnest money for a proposed jail site. At the same meeting the council was given an estimated $38 million capital cost by consultants working on financial plans for a new 300-bed jail.

The county's conversations about funding the Criminal probe opened into veterans' agency mismanagement

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — A criminal investigation has been opened into mismanagement at the Indiana Department of Veterans' Affairs. The Indianapolis Star reports the office of Marion County Prosecutor Terry Curry confirmed the investigation Tuesday and the newspaper says three agency employees recently resigned following media reports about the department. The resignations are part of a reorganization led by the agency's new director, Dennis Wimer, who has pledged to restore confidence. The newspaper says the resigning employees either approved or received grants or welfare benefits administered by the agency. Indiana's inspector general earlier found mismanagement but insufficient evidence for criminal or ethics charges. The agency's leader resigned in December after The Indianapolis Star and WRTV-TV questioned its administration of the Military Family Relief Fund, which is supported by fees from specialty veteran license plates.

Pence expected among mourners for Sen. Lugar

INDIANAPOLIS — Hundreds of mourners are expected at the funeral for Richard Lugar, the longtime U.S. senator from Indiana known for leading efforts to help the former Soviet states dismantle thousands of nuclear weapons. Vice President Mike Pence says he'll give a eulogy during Wednesday's funeral for "an American statesman whose contributions to our nation are countless." Lugar was mayor of Indianapolis before beginning a 36-year Senate career with his first election victory in 1976. He left the Senate following a 2012 Republican primary loss and died April 28 at age 87. Lugar was hailed as a peacemaker during a Tuesday ceremony in the Indiana Statehouse Rotunda, where he was to lie in repose for 24 hours before his funeral. President Barack Obama awarded him the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 2013.

Feds award $1.2M for opioid response in areas

INDIANAPOLIS — A federal agency has awarded Indiana $1.2 million to further the state's efforts to fight the opioid epidemic in rural areas. The Health Resources and Services Administration's Federal Office of Rural Health Policy awarded $200,000 in planning grants to six Indiana entities, including mental health treatment centers. Indiana's funding is part of $24 million announced Monday for 40 states. That money will go toward formalizing partnerships with local stakeholders, conducting needs assessments and developing plans to prevent substance abuse, including opioid abuse, in rural areas. Federal officials say rural opioid users are more likely to be uninsured, less educated and have a lower income than their urban counterparts. More than half of the nation's rural counties also lack a provider who can prescribe the opioid addiction-withdrawal drug buprenorphine.

Misconduct case beginning against AG

INDIANAPOLIS — A former state Supreme Court justice is set to take up allegations that Attorney General Curtis Hill committed professional misconduct by groping four women during a party. Former Justice Myra Selby on Monday scheduled a pre-hearing conference for May 22 at the Statehouse on the Indiana Supreme Court Disciplinary Commission's complaint against Hill over the allegations he touched the backs or buttocks of a state lawmaker and three legislative staffers in March 2018 at an Indianapolis bar. The Republican attorney general has denied the allegations and a special prosecutor declined in October to pursue any criminal charges against him. The disciplinary commission wants him to face disciplinary action from the state Supreme Court. Hill's private attorneys last week filed a response to the commission's complaint, again denying any wrongdoing.

Father of slain girl arrested

INDIANAPOLIS — The father of an 8-year-old girl who was shot to death in March has been arrested. Indianapolis police say members of the department's violent crimes unit and U.S. marshals took the man into custody Monday. He was named in an open warrant related to the March 24 death of Kendrielle Brye. The girl was suffering from a gunshot wound when she was taken to an Indianapolis fire station. She later died at a hospital. Police have said she didn't shoot herself. The Indianapolis Star reports Monday from records that her father was being held on preliminary charges of marijuana and narcotic possession. Kendrielle's mother, Tiffany White, 38, was charged in April with neglect, drug possession and illegal possession of a firearm.

Inspection coming to Ohio River bridge

MAUCKPORT — Traffic along a southern Indiana bridge over the Ohio River at Mauckport in Harrison County will be restricted to one lane later this month as the span goes through inspection. The Indiana Department of Transportation says the inspection depends on the weather and is scheduled May 20-23 on the Matthew E. Welsh Bridge. Traffic restrictions will run from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Vehicles wider than 12 feet will be unable to cross the bridge while the inspection is in progress.

Man sentenced in nail gun attack

MUNCIE — A second man has been sentenced in a case in which a woman was tortured with a nail gun. The (Muncie) Star Press reports that Benitez McCullum, 37, was ordered Monday to spend 25 years in prison. McCullum had pleaded guilty to aggravated battery and criminal confinement charges. Two women and a man were held against their will in a Muncie building in August 2016. Staples or nails were shot into the legs, abdomen and foot of one of the women. Robert A. Walton was found guilty in September of criminal confinement, battery with a deadly weapon and other charges. He was sentenced to 39 years in prison. McCullum, also of Muncie, was accused of hitting the male victim in the head with a shovel.

Site helps dedicate Lewis and Clark trail

CLARKSVILLE — A historic site is now part of a new 1,200-mile expansion of the Lewis and Clark Historic Trail. The News and Tribune reports national, state and local leaders gathered Monday at the Falls of the Ohio Interpretive Center in Clarksville to officially recognize the trail's expansion. Sen. Todd Young, who sponsored legislation about the designation, called it "a magnificent day." The expanded recognition includes areas in Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and new portions of trail in Illinois and Missouri. The expedition across the western U.S. by explorers Meriwether Lewis and William Clark officially started in 1804, but Lewis and Clark met up a year earlier in Clarksville, as they prepared for the journey. One new sign notes that meeting.

Teen pleads guilty in mom's fatal stabbing

CROWN POINT — A teenager accusing of stabbing her mother more than 60 times has pleaded guilty to murder. Chastinea T. Reeves, 17, changed her plea Tuesday under an agreement with prosecutors in exchange for a 45-year prison sentence. Judge Diane Boswell took the plea agreement under advisement. Reeves is scheduled to be sentenced June 12. She had been scheduled to go to trial June 3 in the February 2017 slaying of Jamie Garnett, 34, at their Gary home. Reeves, who was 15 at the time of the slaying, was charged as an adult in Lake Superior Court. Defense attorney John Cantrell said he didn't think Reeves had any chance of being acquitted at trial because prosecutors had the knife used to kill Garnett with Reeves' fingerprint in blood.

Farmers' crops being hindered by rainfall

TERRA HAUTE — Persistent rainfall this spring has put farmers well behind schedule in planting their crops. U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics show just 6 percent of this year's expected corn crop was planted as of May 12, which is far below the five-year average of 57 percent, the Tribune-Star reported. Indiana's prime planting period to maximize corn production in most of the state was from April 20 to May 10. The planting season began slowly last year before roughly 60 percent of the state's corn crops were planted in early May during a two-week period. Terry Hayhurst, who is entering his 35th year of farming at Hayhurst Farms, said the wet spring "has been frustrating as we all want to get out there and gets this (planting) done in a timely manner." He cultivates 1,400 acres in southern Vigo County. Hayhurst has experienced delays in planting before, but the longer it takes to put seed in the ground increases the possibility for higher drying costs at the end of the season at harvest. Hayhurst's farm contains clay soil that retains moisture, which could put off his planting even more.

Packaging manufacturer plans $3M expansion

WHITESTOWN — A Michigan-based packaging manufacturing company is planning a $3 million expansion. Officials announced Tuesday that Opus Packaging Group is building a new facility in Whitestown that will allow the company to increase production for customers in Indiana and other parts of the Midwest. Construction on the building is underway and is expected to be complete by July. The new facility is expected to create more than 40 new jobs by the end of 2022. The Indiana Economic Development Corp. offered Caledonia, Michigan-based Opus Packaging Group up to $240,000 in conditional tax credits based on the company's job creation plans.

AG sues leading insulin manufacturers

FRANKFORT — The attorney general has sued three leading insulin manufacturers, accusing them of deceptive pricing schemes that have caused hardships in a state with high diabetes rates. Attorney General Andy Beshear said Monday his lawsuit filed in state court seeks civil and punitive penalties. Defendants are Eli Lilly, Sanofi-Aventis and Novo Nordisk. Sanofi says it will "vigorously" defend itself against the "meritless" allegations. Novo Nordisk says it's reviewing the allegations but says it ensures its business practices "are consistent with legal" requirements. The suit alleges the insulin makers violated Kentucky's consumer-protection law with schemes to inflate insulin prices. Beshear says the defendants increased the price of insulin products at least 10 times since 2008. He says costs to make insulin are usually less than $7 per vial, but wholesale prices have jumped to nearly $300 per vial.

Arraignment set for pilot charged in killings

FRANKFORT — The attorney general says a pilot charged in the 2015 shooting deaths of three people is scheduled for a court appearance next week. Attorney General Andy Beshear said Monday that defendant Christian R. Martin is to be arraigned May 22 in

Investigators released never-before-seen footage

More than 3,000 new tips in 2017 Delphi murder of two girls

By GEORGE MYERS and KIM DUNLAP
Kokomo Tribune

More than 3,000 tips have been given to investigators about a 2017 Delphi double homicide after never-before-seen video footage and a new sketch were released in late April.

Since a news briefing on April 22, a multi-agency task force has received more than 2,600 emails, 506 calls to the tip line and an additional 145 calls and/or walk-ins to local police departments and state police posts across Indiana, the Indiana State Police announced Monday.

Meanwhile, more than 42,000 tips have been provided since the inception of the email and tip-line after the February 2017 homicides of Delphi teenagers, Libby German, 14, and Abigail Williams, 13.

The ISP has encouraged people to "refrain from sending investigative information" and instead send tips "on possible suspects or information that can lead to the closure of the case."

Notable information about tips includes:

• Be as specific as possible in a description.

• Provide a name and age if possible.

• Provide a connection to Delphi and that person's location or address at this time.

• Leaving information on how police can contact you for possible clarification of a tip is considered helpful but not required.

• Tips can remain anonymous.

Tips — "no matter how insignificant you feel it might be," notes the ISP — can be sent by email at abbyandlibbytip@cacoshrf.com or by calling 844-459-5786.

Speaking at a press conference April 22 at the Canal Center in Delphi, ISP Superintendent Doug Carter told members of the media and a large gathering of community members the new information released was the result of thousands of hours of police work conducted by multiple agencies.

In the video, an unidentified man is walking along the Monon High Bridge area at the time the girls went missing, police said.

The footage was taken from German's cellphone, and Carter said it's the same image of an individual that was released to the public in photo form in March 2017.

"Watch the person's mannerisms as he walks," Carter said while the video aired behind him. "Do you recognize the mannerisms as someone that you might know? Remember he's walking on the former railroad bridge. Because of the deterioration of the bridge, the suspect is not walking naturally in between the ties."

Police also released additional audio and a new sketch during the press conference of the person they believe to be responsible for the double homicide.

The sketch appears to show a man between the ages of 18-40 years of age, and police believe the new sketch is the same person who was on the bridge during the time German and Williams went missing.

That newest sketch looks much different that the initial composite sketch released five months after the homicides.

The April sketch shows a clean-shaven, short-haired, younger-looking man, while the initial sketch showed a middle-aged man with different facial features, a goatee and a hat.

Carter has said the original sketch is now secondary to the newly released one, though he did not elaborate as to how and why the new sketch was created.

It was also revealed in April that the new sketch was created only days after the slayings, but police haven't said why it was kept under wraps for more than two years.

The audio includes additional sound before the suspect's voice can be heard saying, "Down the hill."

In addition, authorities have asked for the public's help in identifying the driver of a vehicle that was left abandoned in Delphi on Feb. 13, 2017, near the old CPS/DCS welfare building on the east side of County Road 300 North, near the Hoosier Heartland Highway, though a detailed description of that vehicle was not released.

Throughout the news conference, Carter told the crowd police believe the person responsible in the double homicide has Delphi connections, whether that means living or working in the area or is just someone who regularly visits the community.

Driver going over 100 mph didn't want to be late for court

(La Porte) Herald-Argus

PORTER — A Michigan City man stopped for going over 100 mph on U.S. 20 in Porter County told an officer he was speeding because he had to get to court for another traffic citation, according to police.

Sirmikiheal Daequan Stalling, 19, was charged Wednesday with reckless driving and driving without ever having obtained a driver's license, according to Porter Police.

He was later released on bail from the Porter County Jail, according to the Porter County Sheriff's Department.

According to a Porter Police report, an officer was westbound on U.S. 20 near Waverly Road when an orange Dodge Charger passed the squad car going faster than the posted speed of 50 mph, then speeded up to pass other vehicles.

The officer activated his radar unit and clocked the Charger at over 80 mph, then followed the car, which reached speeds of over 100 mph, according to the police report.

He activated his flashing lights near U.S. 20 and Beam Street, and the Charger immediately slowed and pulled over, the report said.

The driver told the officer he did not have his license, but was speeding because he did not want to be late for a court hearing.

A computer check showed Stalling had never received a license, but had a previous conviction for driving without a license from March 2019, according to the report.

He was charged with another misdemeanor count of driving without a license, and a misdemeanor count of reckless driving, according to the sheriff's department.

a state court in western Kentucky. Martin was arrested Saturday at the Louisville airport, a day after he was indicted by a Christian County grand jury. He's charged in the deaths of Calvin and Pamela Phillips of Pembroke, Kentucky, and their neighbor, Edward Dansereau. A pilot for an American Airlines subsidiary, Martin was living in North Carolina at the time of his indictment. Beshear said he couldn't comment on evidence prompting Martin's arrest. Christian County Deputy Sheriff Chris Miller says the arrest was welcomed with relief in the community.

Group to open addiction recovery center

FRANKFORT — A group active in the fight against drug addiction in Kentucky's largest city is planning to open a regional recovery center in Appalachia. Jennifer Hancock, president and CEO of Volunteers of America Mid-States, says the group hopes to open a residential treatment program in Clay County this summer. Hancock says the program will house up to 20 women and their children. She says the goal is to expand services to include transitional housing and work reentry services. Kentucky Senate President Robert Stivers says the Freedom House program in his home county will serve children who receive an opportunity for a better start in life. The group received a $150,000 contribution Tuesday from Aetna Better Health of Kentucky for its Manchester project. The group already provides addiction recovery services for pregnant women and mothers in Louisville.

Sentencing delayed in sexual abuse of minors

LOUISVILLE — A federal judge has delayed the sentencing of a former police officer who admitted to sexually abusing minors in the departments now defunct youth program. The Courier Journal reports U.S. District Judge David Hale delayed the sentencing Friday, saying the plea deal for ex-Louisville police Officer Kenneth Betts was too lenient. The deal called for Betts to serve 10 to 15 years on federal charges of enticement and child pornography. Hale says federal guidelines call for a 27-year sentence. Betts' attorney, Brian Butler, says the delay has postponed a hearing at which Betts was expected to plead guilty to sodomy, which carries a mandatory minimum sentence of 10 years in prison. Hale also delayed the sentencing of another Louisville officer Brandon Wood, who's pleaded guilty to similar charges.

Inmate died, possibly from natural causes

LOUISVILLE — A inmate found unresponsive in his Louisville cell has died, and a jail official says he may have died of natural causes. News outlets report authorities haven't released the identity of the inmate, who was booked into the jail last week on charges of providing false information and possessing marijuana and heroin. He was also wanted in Indiana on theft charges. The 42-year-old man was found Monday morning and taken to the University of Louisville Hospital, where he died. Louisville Metro Corrections Assistant Director Steve Durham says preliminary information suggests the man died of natural causes. The exact cause is unclear. The city police department's Public Integrity Unit and the jail's Professional Standards Unit are investigating the death.

Program on legal, judicial systems offered

LOUISVILLE— People who want to know more about legal and judicial systems can attend a session this week in Louisville. The Judicial Branch and the Jefferson County Racial Fairness Commission are hosting Court Talks on Thursday at Spalding University Center. The Administrative Office of the Courts said the event is intended to educate the public about the different departments and agencies that are involved in the legal and judicial systems. The public will also be able to provide feedback about their interactions with the agencies and ask questions. Researchers from the University of Louisville will hold focus groups to learn more about the community's needs and concerns. People who interact with the Jefferson County judicial and legal systems can participate in an online survey before the event.

City temporarily stops recycling paper

LEXINGTON — The city of Lexington is suspending paper recycling due to "changes in the global marketplace" for recycled materials. City officials say there is an overabundance of material in domestic markets and Lexington's recycling center cannot store the paper long term. Residents are being told to put office paper, newspaper, magazines, cereal boxes, paper towel rolls and similar products in the trash. Residents can continue to recycle corrugated cardboard, like moving and shipping boxes. Nancy Albright, Lexington's Commissioner of Environmental Quality and Public Works, says the city is seeking new recycling outlets for paper. She says at least three new nearby mills are expected to begin receiving materials by late fall. A city news release says recycling markets across the country are under strain due to increased standards in China.

Teacher accused pleads not guilty

MURRAY — A former teacher has pleaded not guilty to charges that he placed a video recorder in a bathroom at a high school. The Paducah Sun reports Mark Boggess, 53, appeared in court Tuesday to answer to charges of voyeurism and possession of matter portraying a sexual performance by a minor. He had been a teacher and a track coach at Murray High School. Police have said they arrested Boggess after staff at Murray High reported finding a recording device set up in the bathroom of the nurse's station. Police spokesman Sgt. Brant Shutt said the video recorder captured the person putting the device in place. Murray Independent School District Superintendent Coy Samons has said Boggess resigned after his arrest.

WWII veteran to receive French Legion of Honor

WILMORE — A 95-year-old World War II veteran will be awarded the French Legion of Honor, that country's highest distinction. The Kentucky Department of Veterans Affairs says Alvin H. Perry of Wilmore will receive the medal June 6 at the Thomson-Hood Veterans Center in Wilmore for his participation in the liberation of France. The date is the 75th anniversary of D-Day and the Battle of Normandy. Consul General of France to the Midwest Guillaume LaCroix will present the medal to Perry. The department said as a private first class, Perry was a member of the 331st Infantry Regiment, 83rd Infantry Division. Perry landed at Omaha Beach on June 18, 1944. He participated in the Battle of Normandy, where he was wounded in action and captured. He was held captive in Germany and Bavaria for 10 months.

State invalidates school's test scores

PRESTONSBURG— Education officials say standardized test scores are being invalidated at an elementary school. The Lexington Herald-Leader reports the decision comes after the Kentucky Department of Education launched an investigation of 2017 K-Prep test scores at Betsy Layne Elementary School in Floyd County. Results of the investigation released Monday said there was evidence that staff "deliberately altered student exams and provided inappropriate assistance" to improve scores. The report says three administrators and a teacher would be reported to Kentucky's Education Professional Standards Board, which oversees educators' state licenses. Kentucky Education Commissioner Wayne Lewis said he would characterize what the investigation found as "cheating." Floyd County Superintendent Danny Adkins said he was reviewing the report and meeting with the school district's attorney to determine how to best address the problems.

Natural disasters rising

Can state help individuals as FEMA reduces its role?

By ENRIQUE SAENZ
Indiana Environmental Reporter

The number of deadly natural disasters afflicting the U.S. is rising, and so is the economic cost of each event. As state and federal emergency response agencies change their recovery funding roles, Hoosiers will have to bear more of a financial burden after each disaster.

Historically, when natural disasters have occurred, Americans have been able to depend on state and federal agencies to aid in recovery efforts and subsidize some of the cost of the natural disaster.

But federal agencies are spending less on recovering from the last disaster and more on getting ready for the next one, leaving individuals to pay for more recovery costs on their own dime.

Authorities say the new strategy makes economic sense, but it's likely to hit Hoosiers hard, especially those with low incomes.

DISASTER DECLARATION PROCESS

The State of Indiana's disaster declaration process requires that several steps be taken during and after a natural disaster for assistance to eventually make its way to Hoosiers.

Emergency personnel from local governments must first respond to a natural disaster. When they determine that they need more resources than they have to respond to the event, they can ask the state for help. The governor can then declare a state of emergency, activating the state's emergency plan and resources to deal with the disaster. If the state is overwhelmed, the governor can ask the president to declare a major disaster or emergency declaration.

The federal declaration allows the federal government to disburse federal funds to individuals, families and communities within the official disaster area. Since 2008, Indiana has received nine federal disaster declarations.

FUNDING RECOVERY

The most recent declaration happened last May, after deadly flooding in northern and southern Indiana between February and March 2018.

Many counties saw the worst flooding in decades that was blamed for several deaths. In the southern part of the state, the Ohio River reached its highest crest in 21 years, inundating hundreds of homes in Indiana and Kentucky.

Northern counties also faced record flooding. The St. Joseph River crest reached record levels in Niles, South Bend, Goshen and other cities. Flooding washed away cars and closed many roads.

According to the government's information, the Federal Emergency Management Agency approved 1,164 individual assistance applications from people in 22 counties. Nearly $4 million was approved for individual and household assistance, and more than $11.6 million was given to communities as public assistance grants.

But even that amount is much less than Hoosiers had been receiving from the federal government in past years.

"From about 1990 through about 2004, FEMA was funding those disasters," said Erin Rowe, director of emergency response and recovery for the Indiana Department of Homeland Security. "As we get to about 2005 and through 2018, you start looking, and it's been more of the Small Business Administration and more of us having to use the state's disaster relief fund."

Rowe made her remarks at the Indiana University McKinney School of Law Environmental, Energy, & Natural Resources Law Symposium in Indianapolis this spring

Indiana homeland security statistics show that since about 2005, federal financial disaster relief assistance has declined overall. The State of Indiana has largely had to finance its own disaster recovery, although the state is able to recoup part of the relief expense from the federal government after a federal disaster declaration.

INDIANA DISASTER RELIEF FUND

Indiana is one of only a few states that has its own disaster relief fund to provide financial assistance to help individuals pay for the cost of repairing, replacing or restoring property damaged by a disaster if they're not eligible for a federal grant or loan.

Unfortunately for Hoosiers, the state disaster relief fund coffers are not as large as FEMA's.

The fund is supported by fireworks sales, and the amount of money generated varies every year. The State of Indiana assesses a public safety fee of up to 5 cents on fireworks transactions. The first $2 million is deposited in a regional public safety training fund. Any money left over goes to the relief fund.

"So, it is not a consistent amount of money," Rowe said. "So, if there's a drought, guess what?"

The fund spent $458,997 in the 2016-2017 fiscal year and $132,312 in the 2017-2018 fiscal year. Expenditures for the current fiscal year ending June 30 are estimated to reach $128,211. The expenditure amounts include money spent on individual and community grants. The size of the grants is dependent on how much money is in the fund.

In 2015, the state issued about $307,000 in payments to 118 Hoosiers after severe weather struck and damaged homes in eastern and central Indiana. The applicants were issued checks for about $2,500 each. That amount was determined due to the amount available in the state disaster fund.

The federal disaster declaration during the 2017-2018 fiscal year helped the state avoid paying affected Hoosiers out of the state fund. Despite deadly historic flooding, the state only had to disburse $27,996 in state disaster relief fund grants to eight Hoosiers who were not eligible for federal aid. Those residents received about $3,500 each due to available funds.

Between 2007 and 2017, the state had to tap into its disaster relief fund for 12 weather events. The state awarded 490 grants totaling $2,176,574.43.

Federal aid has served as a safety net for the state during its most difficult moments, but that soon may change.

FEMA'S NEW ROLE

FEMA officials say the agency will not be there to bail out local and state governments after every emergency.

"FEMA is not a first responder," said FEMA acting deputy administrator Daniel Kaniewski in a 2018 speech on the agency's future role. "And some of this blunt talk that maybe you haven't heard from FEMA — expect it. In case you haven't figured that out by now and what I've said today, we are going to be very blunt with the American public about what FEMA can and can't do — what the federal government can and can't do."

Instead of focusing on recovery, FEMA is attempting to shift its focus to funding resilience, or being prepared for natural disasters before they happen to reduce the costs of a natural disaster. In order to increase the amount of money available for future natural disasters, less money will be doled out to individuals for recovery.

"FEMA supports the state. We provide, bureaucratically, what the statute says," said Kaniewski, who is also FEMA's deputy director for resilience. "We provide supplemental assistance to the governors during a disaster. It does not say we are going to be there for every citizen."

The shift in strategy will be painful for individual states as more of their budgets will have to be allocated toward mitigation and disaster recovery efforts. State homeland security officials say spending on preparedness makes financial sense.

"Research has shown that taxpayers save an average of $6 for every dollar spent on mitigation, and that's an amazing return on an investment," Rowe said. "Because if we can mitigate it on the front end, it lessens the amount of response and response cost, as well as the time for recovery."

RECOVERING SOLO

Because of FEMA's retreat and the varying amount of aid available in the state disaster relief fund, individual Hoosiers will have to ensure they protect themselves should a natural disaster happen.

According to the state's Multi-hazard Mitigation Plan, one of the biggest threats Hoosiers will face will be increased precipitation resulting in heavy flooding.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's spring outlook forecasts an increased chance of flooding for more than two-thirds of the U.S. Almost the entire state of Indiana has a higher than 50 percent chance of seeing at least minor flooding. Areas surrounding the Ohio River have a more than 50 percent chance of seeing moderate flooding.

All of the severe weather events that have resulted in enough damage to necessitate dipping into the state disaster relief fund in the last 10 years are storm-related. The storms either led to tornadoes or major flooding.

"We've seen a recent uptick in catastrophic disasters, including flooding recently," Kaniewski said in April. "As a result, we have to change the way we think about them. Everybody in a community is responsible for being prepared for disasters. Insured survivors will be able to recover more quickly and more fully from a flood or other catastrophic event than their uninsured neighbors. FEMA assistance to uninsured disaster survivors is a fraction of the assistance provided who have flood insurance."

Homeowner's insurance and renter's insurance will help pay for damages caused by some disasters, but to protect against flooding, homeowners must have specific flood insurance.

Flood insurance rates vary depending on where one lives in relation to a body of water or a known flood zone.

Paying for financial protection will be an added burden for many Hoosiers, but it may soon be the only way to ensure recovery after a disaster.

State homeland security has a website to help Hoosiers prepare to deal with the questions that come up before, during or after a natural disaster strikes. You can find the info at getprepared.in.gov.

State budget caught between small pay raises and healthcare costs

By LARRY DeBOER

Every two years the Indiana General Assembly writes a new state budget. This year the legislature set spending for fiscal year 2020, which starts in a couple of months on July 1, and for fiscal year 2021, which starts in mid-2020. Of course, to budget for the future legislators need a reasonable guess about how much money they'll have to spend. That requires a revenue forecast.

So, the Budget Agency hires a consultant to make predictions about the Indiana and U.S. economies over the next two years. Then the revenue forecast technical committee calculates how these economic numbers affect revenues. For example, if income is growing, people will pay more income taxes. Higher income means they'll spend more, so sales and excise taxes will rise. If corporate profits are predicted to increase, corporate income taxes will rise.

The first forecast is announced in December, so legislators can get started on the budget. But the forecast that really counts is the revision in April, right before the final negotiations. The April forecast takes account of recent economic trends and revenue collections. The forecast revision was announced on April 17.

LARRY DeBOER

The State Budget Committee heard first from the economic consultant, who predicted that growth for the U.S. and Indiana economies would be slower in the next two years. That means revenue growth was expected to be slower too, down from 3.6 percent this year, to 2.6 percent in 2020 and 2.5 percent in 2021. Revenues are expected to rise from $16.1 billion in 2019, to $16.6 billion in 2020, and to $17 billion in 2021.

The economic forecast said that inflation would run a little more than 2 percent per year, which means that added revenue covered inflation, but not much more. That's one reason why it was hard for the legislature to find money for things like added teacher pay and child welfare programs.

Here's another reason. Spending on Medicaid is expected to increase a lot. Medicaid is a collection of entitlement programs for health care. The Healthy Indiana Plan is the biggest one. The state must pay benefits that people are entitled to receive under the eligibility rules.

The General Assembly needs to know how much Medicaid will cost in the coming biennium. So after the revenue forecast, the Family and Social Services Administration (FSSA) presented a Medicaid forecast. Medicaid costs about $14 billion per year. The federal government pays about 80 percent of that total.

Indiana's share comes out of the budget. At the April forecast, the FSSA said that the state would need $2.2 billion in fiscal 2019, then $2.5 billion in 2020 and $2.6 billion in 2021. Those are increases of 16 percent and 5 percent for the next two fiscal years.

The April revenue and Medicaid forecasts were revisions from the forecasts in December. In total for the rest of fiscal 2019, and for the coming biennium, the revision subtracted $33 million from revenues. Sales and individual income taxes were revised downward the most, while corporate income taxes and interest earnings were revised upward.

The Medicaid forecast revised 2019 costs downward by $40 million, but increased the forecast for the coming biennium by $105 million, for a net increase of $65 million. So, the combined revisions in the revenue and Medicaid forecasts meant that the General Assembly had about $98 million less for the budget. That made negotiations a little tougher.

Here's the really tough part, though. Slow growth in the economy over the next two years means there will be a bit more than $400 million in new revenue each year. Rapid growth of Medicaid costs means an added $270 million will be needed in 2020, and $120 million will be needed in 2021. So Medicaid will require about 66 percent of all the new revenue in 2020, and 30 percent in 2021. Remaining revenues grow 0.9 percent in 2020 and 1.8 percent in 2021. That's not enough to cover inflation.

Lots of people see their household budgets squeezed between small wage increases and rising health care costs. The General Assembly faces the same problem. The economy is growing slowly while health care costs are growing rapidly. The state's budget is squeezed in between.

2 Madison women charged with dealing meth

Courier staff report

Two Madison women are facing drug dealing charges after an investigation by the Madison Police Department.

Sr. Patrolman Aaron Watson found information late last year that identified Karla D. Newsome, 39, and Kendra G. Liston, 41 as sources of methamphetamine in Jefferson County, Madison police said in a news release.

Watson and MPD Detectives Ricky Harris and Kyle Cutshaw conducted controlled purchases from Newsome and Liston as part of their investigation. During the purchases they were able to buy methamphetamine from the women.

Warrants issued by the Jefferson County Superior and Circuit courts for their arrests were served on May 10 and May 13. Newsome's bond was set at $2,000 in superior court. She faces charges of dealing methamphetamine, a Level 5 felony, and possession of methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony.

Liston was not given a bond in the circuit court. When Liston was arrested, officers Watson, Lt. Season Jackson, K-9 Patrolman Phillip Wimpee and his partner, Colt, found her to be in possession of methamphetamine and methamphetamine paraphernalia, the release said. She faces two counts of dealing methamphetamine, a Level 4 felony; three counts of possession of methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony; and possession of methamphetamine, a Class C misdemeanor.

Newsome and Liston were taken to the Jefferson County Jail.

Seymour man killed in Jackson County crash

Courier staff report

CROTHERSVILLE — A Seymour man was killed Tuesday evening on I-65 southbound near the 40-mile marker.

An initial investigation by Tropper Korry Clark of the Indian State Police-Versailles Crash Reconstruction Team, found that a 2005 Ford truck driven by Randall F. Carr, 72, of Seymour, was southbound on I-65 just south of the Uniontown exit. For an unknown reason, Carr's vehicle left the road off to the west side, an ISP news release said. His vehicle hit an embankment and rolled over before stopping in a field on the west side of I-65. Carr sustained fatal injuries in the crash and was dead at the scene.

Clark was assisted at the scene by other troopers from the ISP-Versailles Post, the Crothersville Police Department, Vernon Township Fire Department, Jackson County EMS, Jackson County Coroner's Office and Howard's Wrecker Service.

In Loving Memory of

Carole Yater Sloan

Carole Yater Sloan, 80, of Madison, passed away Monday, April 22, 2019, at Franciscan Hospice House in Indianapolis, Indiana. Born on February 27, 1939, in Madison, she was the daughter of Melvin James and Martha Madge (Oldaker) Yater.

In 1957 Carole graduated from Madison High School, where she was Custer Oratorical Contest winner, class officer, and a member of the band, Girls' Athletic Association, Sunshine Club, and the Honor Society. Carole was an active member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority at Hanover College from which she graduated in 1961. She received her master's degree in elementary education from Indiana University Southeast in 1971.

Carole began her teaching career in Martinsville, Indiana, before returning to Madison where she taught at E.O. Muncie. She then stayed home with her children for several years before working at the optometry office of her husband, David. Returning to education she taught for 20 years at Southwestern Elementary in Hanover.

As a child, Carole attended Trinity United Methodist and Madison Presbyterian churches. Later she became a member of Christ Episcopal Church where she was an involved parishioner, serving on the Vestry and Altar Guild. In 1974 Carole and her husband, David, went on a Volunteer Optometrist in Service to Humanity mission trip to Haiti to provide examinations and glasses. Together they also participated in the Madison Ulster Project, and traveled to Ireland in 2005 to attend its international conference.

Carole was involved in several other community organizations including Hanover Chapter 525 of the Order of the Eastern Star, Tri Kappa Women's Sorority, Indiana Teachers' Association, Indiana Retired Teachers' Association, and Historic Madison Inc. She was active in Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts as a leader. She served as a docent for Historic Madison, Inc.

Carole was a kind and compassionate woman with a sweet spirit, who loved spending time with family and friends. She was a devoted daughter, mother, and grandmother. She was her children's biggest cheerleader. She was also host mother to six exchange students from four countries: Horacio, Johanna, Sandra, Sara, Rocio, and Jan. She was an avid reader, card player, theater lover, world traveler, IU basketball fan, and lover of fine wine.

Carole will be missed by her children: Sheila Butler and her husband, Prince, of Bloomington, Indiana, and their children, Nate, Cameron, and Ryan; Eric Prime and his wife, Karla, of Bargersville, Indiana, and their children, Andrew, Alden, and Alec; Shannon Dattilo and her husband, Daniel, of Madison, Indiana, and their children, Devin, Adrianna, and Brycen; Shelli Anderson and her husband, Mark, of Bargersville, Indiana, and their children, Gavin, Samuel, and Sydney; and her "sister" cousin, Sarah Jane Green and her husband, Gene, of Hanover, Indiana; several other cousins, and many friends.

She was preceded in death by her husband of 42 years, Dr. David Weeks Sloan in 2013, and her parents, Melvin James Yater in 1958, and Martha Madge Yater in 1997.

The Reverend Evelyn Wheeler will conduct funeral services at 2:00 PM Saturday, May 18, 2019 at Christ Episcopal Church, 506 Mulberry Street, Madison. Inurnment will follow immediately afterward at the church columbarium.

Friends and family may visit at the Lytle Welty Funeral Homes & Cremation Service, Vail Chapel, 117 Holt Drive, Madison's Hilltop from 4:00 PM to 7:00 PM Friday, May 17, 2019. The Hanover Chapter 525 of the Order of the Eastern Star will honor Carole with a special ceremony at 6:45 PM.

The family requests gifts to honor Carole's memory be made to Jefferson County Public Library or The Association for Frontotemporal Degeneration.

Charlie's Beat

Local barbershop bringing Nashville songwriters to Madison

By CHARLIE ROHLFING

There's a famous music series called the NPR Tiny Desk Concerts. The idea is you get musicians to play in a confined space with a tiny audience to create a unique, intimate performance. And then you video the whole thing so the rest of the world can experience it.

This same concept is happening right now in Madison with the House of Jane Songwriter Sessions. The concerts happen at Jane Vonderheide's barbershop on Main Street, and the audience is limited to about 20 people.

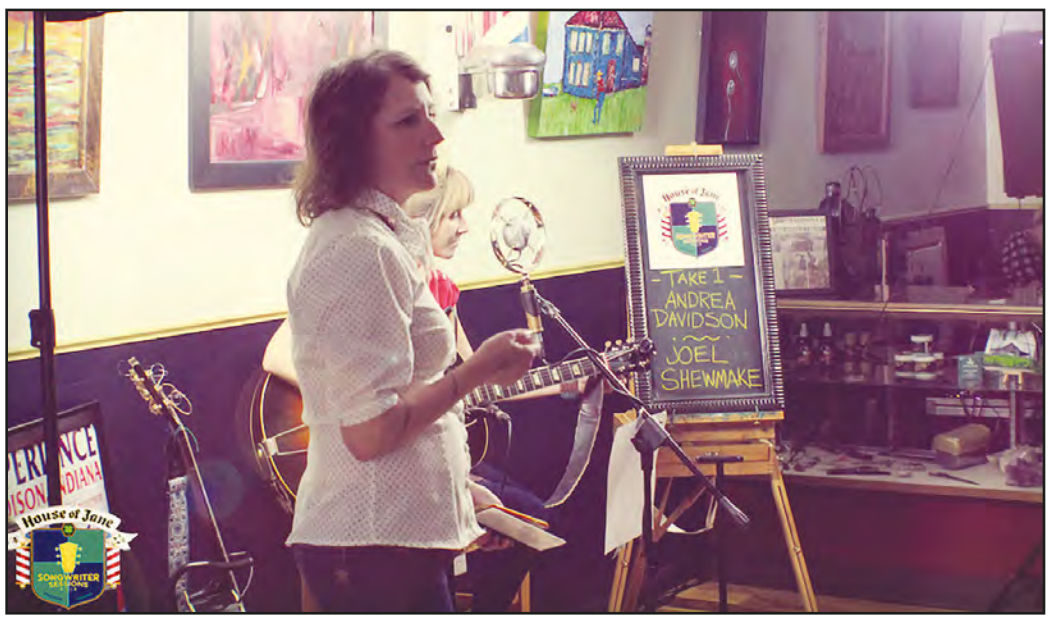
The inaugural show was a few weeks ago and it featured Andrea Davidson and Joel Shewmake. You can see the first video now on YouTube by searching "House of Jane Songwriter" and there's also a Facebook page.

The concert series is the brainchild of Jimmy Davis, and Jane came onboard as impresario and partner in the venture.

"If Madison wants to become a musical destination," Jimmy said, "then the fastest way to accomplish that is to tap into the source — songwriters."

The idea of the House of Jane sessions is to feature one local songwriter and a regional or Nashville songwriter at each concert. "We believe our local talent can stand up with the best in the country, and these concerts will show that," Jimmy continued. "People here will get to see some amazing singer songwriters.

"But it works the other way too. We're also introducing Madison to the Nashville artists. We're showing them what a great place this is to come and share their music. Musicians talk amongst themselves, believe me. Their network is other players.



"Every musician friend I bring to Madison just falls in love with the place. They go back to Nashville or wherever and share their experience. I believe it's going to put Madison on the map as a destination for great original music.

"What's cool about these songwriter sessions is they get to play their favorite songs, not what they think might be most marketable. They have a lot of great songs they've written that never make it to the radio, but it might be a killer song. Our sessions give them the freedom to perform those songs."

As for Jane's part, Madison and music are two of her greatest passions.

"I just want to help good things happen here in Madison," Jane said. "I think original songwriting is a facet of the arts scene that hasn't been fully explored here yet. We're going to celebrate it and see how far we can take it.

"If you want to support our efforts the best thing you can do is go online and watch the videos. The more views we get the more successful we will be," Jane said. "Eventually we want to partner with a sponsor who will help us bring in bigger names and sustain it for a long time."

"I know a guy in Nashville, he's one of the top songwriters in town. His name is Bobby Braddock, and he wrote 'He Stopped Loving Her Today' and about a million other hits," he said. "He's my Great White Whale for the House of Jane Sessions. That's the goal, is for guys like him to be asking me how they can get on the schedule."

The next concert will be May 30th and will feature local songwriter Kriss Luckett and Kentucky native Britton Patrick Morgan. Keep an eye out for the video postings. It's sure to be a special performance.

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK:

Wow, take a look at the Saturday calendar! There are SEVEN places you can go to see live music in our little town. I'll be bouncing between Slick River Rockets at the Winery, Wild Ponies at The Bike, and V-Groove up at the VFW. And, if you like country, pop into the Taproom for Jessie Strassel. I'd also highly recommend the Brothers Smith at the Taproom on Friday. They are super-talented and always fun.

Charlie Rohlfing is a stalwart of the RiverRoots Festival committee, a campfire guitar strummer, and a partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening. Find him out and about or at charlie@madisoncourier.com

Volunteer to help Arvin Sango's last planting of forest this Saturday

The sixth and final planting of trees at Arvin Sango's forest will be Saturday, May 18, and anyone can volunteer to help. The event will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 12:30 p.m. and include lunch, a Nature Fair with activities for children, and drawings for prizes. Volunteers will plant about 4,000 trees and shrubs to complete Arvin Sango's commitment to plant a 20,000-tree forest on its property. The new saplings will join 18,627 trees and shrubs planted starting in 2014. Volunteers should wear boots because the planting area will have been soaked.

The planting area is near the Arvin Sango building at 2949 Wilson Ave. Signs will show where to park.

Violations cited in city inspector's Victoria Inn report

The violations cited in his report, in the order they are listed, are:

1. "Outside south porch and west porch; no handrail on steps from front porch to west porch."

2. "North, East, South, and West elevations (sides): all window and door jambs are in need of painting."

3. "South, West, and North elevations; cracks are starting to open due to water and water freezing, during winter months."

4. "South, West and North Elevations; exterior walls are starting to crack and break."

5. "Many windows and doors are in need of scraping, priming and a fresh coat of paint."

6. A few rooms on the lower level had windows with glazing with cracks and holes.

7. A window was held in place by screws and was not operable. Also, "some windows were not able to be opened because of clutter and furniture."

8. Because of the type of residency occupancy, "owner was to remove East entrance sliding door or replace it with a hinged door with panic hardware."

9. "The locking mechanisms on various doors to dwelling units were not working."

10. "Apartment 104 was padlocked and owner did not have the key."

11. "Laundry room in basement was not locked."

12. "Carpet was worn on steps going to 2nd floor and to the basement, causing a trip hazard."

13. "Front and side porches are in need of concrete cack repair."

14. "Handrail is not a graspable style (2 X 4) going to the basement."

15. "There is no handrail on front porch leading west."

16. "Concrete patio had cracking, creating a trip hazard on the south and west elevations."

17. "Wood framing is deteriorated around windows and doors on south, east, west and north elevations."

18. "Interior and exterior stairs: on the front porch had no handrail and stairs to basement had wrong grip."

19. "First floor and second floor hallways and stairs, lighting is too dim."

20. "Missing vanity lights in apts. 107, 102, 200, 202 and 205."

21. "No vent fan in any of the bathrooms."

22. "No working smoke detectors in any units."

23. "Toilet stacked with feces, and paper."

24. "Toilet overflowing with paper material in apartment 102."

25. "Apartments 107 and 207 had no switch covers" on electrical outlets.

26. "Apartment 210 had no GFCI (ground fault circuit interrupter), 106 had no outlet cover and 107 had no switch cover. An extension cord connected to the microwave in apartment 102."

27. "Padlock used on apartment 104."

28. "Articles blocking egress, furniture placed in front of egress windows in apartments 104 and 102."

29. "Ceilings, walls, and floors have numerous openings in the fire resistant assembly; the basement at bottom of steps had a hole in the wall and ceiling and exposed wiring. Open ceiling in apartments 106, 200, 201, 101 and 207."

30. Missing or not working smoke alarms in all apartments and laundry room."

project have included creating two new county income taxes.

Jefferson County residents could see a 0.6 percent increase in county income taxes on their pay stubs. The increase would come from a combination of a 0.4 percent creation of a public safety tax and the creation of a new, jail-specific local income tax at 0.2 percent.

The state has allowed for counties to create these taxes to help fund projects like new or expanded county jails. The jail-specific LIT can now be collected for 22 years due to recent changes in state legislation, said county council member Joe Craig. The council explained that the two-year extension was added because it is now estimated to take counties 22 years instead of 20 from the time the tax is starting to generate revenue through when the county's bonds on the project are paid off.

The county is the only entity that will collect revenue from the jail-specific LIT, which is different from the new public safety tax. The county and all incorporated towns will each receive portions from the tax revenues generated from the public safety tax. The amounts received by Madison, Hanover, Brooksburg and Jefferson County are based on the entities' assessed values. Within the county, Madison has the largest assessed value, followed by Hanover then Brooksburg.

Bramer has been negotiating with the City of Madison to set up an agreement in which the city would give the county some of its additional revenue generated by the new public safety tax, which could decrease the amount of the tax from 0.6 percent to 0.3 percent, but those talks are still underway.

The county has to create the jail-specific local income tax by June 30 of this year to be able to use all of the revenue it creates for the jail project's expenses.

magistrate, were approved in 2018. The other two counties were Scott and Putnam. During testimony in front of the Study Committee and Courts and the Judiciary of the Indiana General Assembly, Hensley was quoted in an article in The Indiana Lawyer as saying "that because judges' dockets are so full, they often spend the majority of their days sitting on the bench, rather than in their offices. That complicates the completion of judges' administrative responsibilities, and makes it difficult to find time for tasks such as legal research." Magistrates have the authority to administer an oath or affirmation required by law; solemnize a marriage; take and certify an affidavit or deposition; order a subpoena issued in a matter pending before the court; compel the attendance of a witness; punish contempt; issue a warrant; set bail; enforce court rules; conduct a preliminary, an initial, an omnibus, or other pretrial hearing; conduct an evidentiary hearing or trial; receive a jury's verdict; verify a certificate for the authentication of records of a proceeding conducted by the magistrate; enter a final order, conduct a sentencing hearing, and impose a sentence on a person convicted of a criminal offense…; enter a final order or judgment in any proceeding…" and more, according to Indiana Code.

Cubs football coach Morrison resigns to be assistant AD

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Madison's Patric Morrison is trading in his coach's whistle for an administrator's pen and will move into the role of assistant athletic director at Madison Consolidated High School starting this fall.

Morrison, a 2006 graduate of Madison, has spent the last six years as head football coach at the school, a job he landed just four years after graduating from Hanover College. He will replace Patrick Maschino, who is returning to the classroom after two years as assistant AD.

For Morrison, leaving the sidelines was a difficult choice to make. It had always been his dream to be a head football coach and while there were plenty of ups and downs, he said he's enjoyed every minute of it.

But the chance to move into administration proved to be too good of an opportunity to pass up. And after four agonizing days, he finally made the decision to leave football coaching for the administrative job.

"I'm excited about this new chapter in my life," Morrison said Monday. "It's going to be different and I'm going to miss coaching. I loved being a coach and I loved my players. It was a real bittersweet decision. But I also know that this is a really good chance and I can't wait to get started."

"I'm excited about this new chapter in my life. It's going to be different and I'm going to miss coaching. I loved being a coach and I loved my players. It was a real bittersweet decision. But I also know that this is a really good chance and I can't wait to get started."

Patric Morrison
coaching the football Cubs
in 2018

When Maschino made the decision to return to the classroom, Madison athletic director Joe Bronkella knew who we wanted to take over the position. Morrison has served as a "seasonal AD" at the school for the past five years, helping run events in the winter and spring seasons and Bronkella knew he was more than qualified to move into the role full time.

"The first person that I could think of that would be a great replacement and a great person to step in was Mr. Morrison," Bronkella said. "He's well-connected, he's very good with organization, he's very good PR stuff. Every category I'm looking at, he fits it, a perfect mold. It does present a tough search for a football coach, especially this late in the season, but with him and his connection, and me, I think we have the right guidance to be able to get a good replacement and pick up right where he left off."

Morrison's record in six seasons at Madison was only 14-47, but a look beyond just those numbers present a better indication of his true success with the program. The 14 wins represent the fifth-highest total among the 12 coaches in Madison history and his .230 winning percentage is also fifth-highest. The three coaches prior to Morrison combined to win just 15 games in 10 years and the Cubs had just 20 wins in the 13 years prior to Morrison's arrival.

In 2014, Madison was 6-5 to post just the eighth winning season since the school reinstated football in 1960, and the program's first winning campaign since 1992. His 2013 squad scored 211 points, the fifth-highest in school history, and the following year the Cubs collected 210 points. His team's authored the second, third and fourth most points scored in a single game and a 42-3 rout of Bedford North Lawrence in 2013 was the eighth-biggest win in school history and highest winning margin in 23 years.

But Morrison wasn't interested in just wins and losses.

His work with the team in the community made him a 2018 Indiana Youth Institutes D. Susan Wisely Youth Worker of the Year Finalist and he was twice named Indiana Football Coaches Association Region 10 Coach of The Week. He had 23 players named to the all-Hoosier Hills Conference team, 49 players named to the all-HHC academic team, seven players named IFCA Academic All-

Pacers Thomas, Anders score wins as 12 locals advance

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

JEFFERSONVILLE — Local athletes picked up two individual championships and had 12 regional qualifiers at the IHSAA Girls Track & Field Sectional at Jeffersonville on Tuesday.

Switzerland County's Aleiah Thomas and Leah Anders led the way by claiming their second-straight sectional titles in the high jump and 800-meter run, respectively, and the Pacers as a team placed third overall behind winner Jeffersonville and runner-up Silver Creek on the strength of four regional qualifiers.

"We are so proud of Aleiah and Leah for picking up their wins and we're really happy to place third," Switzerland coach Adam Pietrykowski said. "For a school of our size to finish third in this meet is really impressive."

Thomas posted a jump of 5 feet, 2 inches which actually tied with New Washington's Kalin Campbell and Rock Creek's Na'imah Slaughter. But Thomas got the win on fewest attempts.

Anders picked up the win in the 800 run in 2:31.32 and anchored the Pacers' 3200-meter relay team of Alisha Detmer, Matty Anderson and Keirstan Oeffinger that placed second in 10:34.31. Ally Furnish also placed second in the 300-meter hurdles in 49.43 for Switzerland's other regional qualifier.

Madison had five regional qualifiers, all of which placed third to drive the Cubs to a fourth-place finish as a team. Lundun Perry was third in the 100 dash in 13.23, Addison Hill was third in the discus with a throw of 106-feet-even, Emily Kiefer was third in the pole vault at 8-feet-even, Harper Watson, Perry, Emily Skirvin and Jordyn Bilz were third in the 400-meter relay in 53.21, and Chloe Ferris, Kelsey Bilz, Clare Wilber and Brett Cahall were third in the 3200-meter relay in 10:40.21.

"I was so proud of the girls tonight. We had so many personal bests and just amazing effort," Madison coach Josh Wilber said. "There were some performances that did not go on but just blew away personal bests of which they certainly are champions in my book. Overall, it was a tough meet and we left it all on the track."

Shawe's Lauren Lundergan had a strong meet, qualifying for the regional in two events and the Hilltoppers were 10th out of 12 teams. The senior posted a personal-best mark of 16 feet, 4.25 inches to place third in the long jump and was third in the 3200-meter run in 13:31.44.

Freshman Kylie Eccles was the only athlete to qualify for regional from Southwestern, placing third in the 300 hurdles in 49.90. However, the Rebels finished eighth as a team.

Other finishes for Switzerland County were: Sydney Thomas, Jaydon

Madison third at HHC golf championship

Ommen, Jamieson card 79s to tie for 7th

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Floyd Central edged Bedford North Lawrence on a fifth-man tie-breaker to win the Hoosier Hills Conference boys golf championship held at Sunrise Golf Course in Madison on Monday.

Both teams shot a 315 under chilly and windy conditions but Floyd's fifth man was two strokes better than Bedford's to give the Highlanders the conference crown.

Madison placed third on its home course with a 325 while New Albany was fourth with a 328 followed by Jeffersonville (342), Jennings County (344), Seymour (351) and Columbus East (355).

Although the Cubs were happy to get third place behind the two favorites, there was also some disappointment considering that the team was playing on a course tthe players know like the back of their hands.

"I definitely feel like we should have done better. Especially when our No. 1 was sitting at the turn at even-par," Madison coach Chris Conner said. "This is the time of the year when you want to feel like you're getting better and the last couple of matches, we've gone south. We've still got some work to do."

Madison's top three golfers all played well but each left his share of shots on the course.

No player had it rougher than Drew Barron playing in the No. 1 spot. Barron finished the first nine holes with an even-par 36, but opened the back nine with a double-bogey on the par-3 10th hole and it didn't get much better after that. Back-to-back holes bad with a double-bogey on 15 and a quadruple bogey on 16 sank Barron to an eight-over on the back nine and an 80 overall.

Trent Jameison and Luke Ommen each went the opposite direction for the Cubs, shrugging off tough front nines both played well on the back side and finish with 79s, good for all-conference honorable mention.

Landon McDowell shaved a stroke off his score on the back and finished with an 87 to round out Madison's scoring while Dylan Eblen shot a 96 with a four-stroke improvement on the back nine.

While the Cubs 325 final score wasn't bad, what hurt the Cubs the most was the fact that a 314 would have won the title. For Conner, that's a score that is more than in his team's reach.

"We should have (won it). Maybe I've been spoiled over the past couple of years, but I feel like this team can come close to that," Conner said. "We just haven't seen that yet."

While Columbus East posted the highest team score, the Olympians also had the lowest individual as Kody Reynolds carded a one-under 71 to win the conference championship.

New Albany's Nolan Keeler shot a 75 for second and Bedford North Lawrence's Ethan Stanley had a 76 for third while Floyd Central's Harrison Eades and Jennings County's Bryce Kirchner both had 77s to round out the all-HHC First Team selections.

Joining Jameison and Ommen as honorable mentions were Floyd Central's Judson Dukes with a 78 and Bedford's Cole Sanders and Cameron Jeskewich and Floyd Central's Christian McIntosh, all with 79s.

Madison's next meet is the Providence Invitational at Champions Pointe Golf Course on Saturday, May 25.

Madison's Luke Ommen (top) and Trent Jamieson (bottom) both shot 79s to earn Hoosier Hills Conference honorable mention honors at Sunrise Golf Course. The Cubs finished third as a team. (Staff photos by David Campbell)

Surging Southwestern wins 'sectional preview' over Milan 9-4

sports@madisoncourier.com

Bailey Elliott used both his arm and his bat to lead Southwestern baseball to a 9-4 win over Milan in a sectional preview Monday in Hanover.

The win also allowed the Rebels to take over second place in the Ohio River Valley Conference, just a game behind Rising Sun

Baseball Roundup

Elliott was 3-for-3 with a home run, a double and three RBIs to lead the Rebels' 15-hit attack. On the mound, he held the Indians to just two earned runs on six hits in seven innings with seven strikeouts and two walks.

Southwestern pulled away from the Indians late. Holding onto just a 5-4 lead, the Rebels scored two runs in the fifth and three more in the sixth to finally gain the breathing room they needed to close out the win.

Along with Elliott, Tyler Kramer had two hits and two RBIs, Nate Lichlyter had two hits and an RBI, Talon Harmon and Jackson Stockdale each had two hits and scored a run, Dylan West had a double and an RBI and Foster Mefford had a hit and an RBI.

On Tuesday, Southwestern blew open a close game with a seven-run fifth inning to knock off Christian Academy of Indiana 14-3 in New Albany.

The Rebels were holding a 7-3 lead entering the fifth inning when they seized control of the game. West opened the scoring with an RBI single and Mitchell Adcock drew a bases-loaded walk to force in a second run. Harmon then cleared the bases with a three-run double and Stockdale later hit a two-run single to push the lead to 11 and end the game on the mercy rule.

Harmon finished the game 3-for-4 with five RBIs and three runs scored while Mefford had two hits and drove in two runs and Tyler Kramer had two hits and scored twice. Zach Cole added two hits and scored two runs.

Nate Lichlyter struck out six in three innings while allowing two earned runs on four walks to pick up the win. Mefford worked the final two innings and allowed just a hit while striking out four.

Southwestern, now 15-9, 8-2 ORVC and winners of four of its past five, was to Switzerland County Wednesday for the Rebels's ORVC finale.

Southwestern will need some help to catch Rising Sun. The Shiners (14-5, 9-1 ORVC) were to play their final conference game at Jac-Cen-Del on Wednesday.

HHC champ Jeff rolls over Cubs again 11-1

Jeffersonville out-hit Madison 11-2 and outscored the Cubs 11-1 in a Hoosier Hills Conference ba11seball matchup Tuesday at Jeff.

The Cubs, 19-0 losers to the Red Devils just last week on a no-hitter, did a little bit better on Tuesday but not near enough. The earlier win had launched Jeff (17-5) on a 3-0 tourney run to eventually win the HHC championship 11-1 over Bedford North Lawrence.

On Tuesday, back-to-back two out singles by Cooper Yancey and Zach Forner — combined with two straight balks by Jeff pitcher Dylan Raisor — produced Madison's only run of the game in the top of the third inning and tied the contest 1-1 at that point.

However, Jeffersonville exploded for seven runs on six hits, three walks and an error in the bottom of the inning to take a commanding 8-1 lead and never look back.

The big Jeff rally chased Madison starter Hunter Ferris with the Cubs trailing 4-1 and two on base. Forner came on in relief and struck out the first batter he faced for the second out but then gave up an RBI single to Drew Taylor and a two-run triple to Jack Ellis before the lone error of the rally scored Ellis.

Raisor went four and a third innings for Jeff, allowing two hits and one run while striking out one. Connor Christopher threw two-thirds of an inning in relief out of the bullpen to close out the five inning win.

Ferris took the loss for Madison, allowing six runs — all earned — on six hits over two and a third innings while striking out five. Forner allowed two runs — one earned — on two hits and two walks while striking out one and Mason Welsh pitched one and a third innings and allowed three runs — one a solo home run by Ellis to lead off the bottom of the fifth — for two earned runs on three hits and a walk while striking out three.

Madison, now 7-11 and losers of nine of their last 10, visits Shawe Memorial on Friday at Post 9 Field.

Pacers doubled up by Jac-Cen-Del in Osgood

Switzerland County was held to just four hits in a 6-3 loss to Jac-Cen-Del in baseball Monday in Osgood.

The Pacers scored a run in the first and two in the fourth to tie the game at 3-3. But Jac-Cen-Del took the lead with a run in the fourth and two in the sixth for the win.

Cade Rider had a single, a double, scored a run and drove in a run to lead Switzerland. Damion Courter had a hit and scored a run and Landon Wilks had a hit.

Zach Weaver took the loss after allowing six runs — two earned — on 10 hits in five and two-thirds innings with two strikeouts and three walks. Rider got the final out in relief.

Switzerland, (2-18, 1-10 ORVC) was to visit Southwestern on Wednesday.

Errors cost Raiders in 12-2 loss at Henry Co.

The hits were nearly even but six errors doomed Trimble County baseball in a 12-2 loss at Henry County on Tuesday.

The Raiders lashed out eight hits to nine by Henry, but errors led to four unearned run early to allow the Wildcats to take control.

Henry County scored two runs in the first and two in the second — all thanks to errors — and then pushed three across in the third to go ahead 7-0.

Trimble got two runs back in the top of the fourth on a two-run double by Seth Brewer that scored Logan Clifford and Evan Stevens, but Henry then tacked on five more runs in the fifth to end the game early.

Brewer and Matt Saylor each had two hits to lead Trimble while Austin Cissell, Clifford, Ray Payton and Landon Sutherland had a hit each.

Brewer took the loss after allowing four unearned runs on one hit in two innings with one strikeout and three walks. Stevens gave up eight runs — all earned — on eight hits in two and a third innings of relief.

Trimble (2-17, 2-5 North Central Kentucky) visits Carroll County today.

12 Carroll errors lead to 20-3 rout by Jackets

Woodford County out-hit Carroll County just 9-7 but the Panthers made a dozen errors leading to 20-3 baseball shelling on Tuesday in Carrollton.

Carroll fell behind 2-0 after two innings when a leadoff error and two-out single and another error pushed both runs across. Woodford used a walk, a wild pitch a double and another error to make it 4-0 in the third inning .

Carroll got a run back in the third on three straight singles by Andrew Shaw, David Duncan and Zach Clifford but the Yellow Jackets scored twice in the fourth when a single, back-to-back errors and a wild pitch plated one run and another error scored a second.

Carroll opened the fourth with a double by Craig Beach and a walk by Jason Polley before Blake Reynolds was hit by a pitch to load the bases. After a fly out failed to move the runners, Duncan walked to score Beach and Clifford hit a fielder's choice to score Polley.

A walk, a hit batter and a Carroll error let Woodford jump on top 10-3 in the fifth before the wheels fell completely off for Carroll in the sixth when the Yellow Jackets sent 15 batters to the plate and scored 10 runs

The devastating inning started off with four straight walks by Clifford and Duncan and three-straight errors. Carroll finally got the second out with two still on base but a hit batter reloaded the bases, a walk forced in a run and a triple scored three more before an error made it 20-3 for the final margin.

Clifford was 1-for-3 with two RBIs for Carroll and Duncan was 1-for-3 with an RBI. Dane Lacefield, Chris Perkinson, Beach, Polley and Shawe all had hits.

Carroll County (13-11) hosts Trimble County today in its home finale.

State, two players named to the Indianapolis Colts Academic All-Star Team and the IFCA All-State Team and one player named an IFCA Region 10 All-Star and to the Indiana Football South All-Star Team.

As a former player at Madison, Morrison knew what he was getting into when it took the job and understood that turning the program around was not going to happen in one season — or even six.

"I set a bunch of goals for myself when I took the job and the only one I didn't reach was that I wanted to play for a sectional championship," Morrison said. "I think this team (next year) has every bit of the capability to do that.

"I've put a lot of focus on academics. I've had a lot of kids honored. We've gotten the numbers up, with a high of 72 one year but we're always in the 50s and 60s. I think the program is in really good shape and I think this is an attractive job to coaches coming in," Morrison said.

Bronkella said the football job will be posted Wednesday morning and while he is hopeful that the job may be filled before school ends on May 30, he more realistically hopes to have a new coach by mid-June.

In the meantime, Morrison will continue to serve as football coach, getting the team ready for the summer and running the squad for as long as needed. Morrison will also serve on the search committee to find his replacement.

"I told my players today that while I'm no longer going to be their coach, I'll still be the GM," Morrison said with a laugh. "I'll still be around and I'll miss every minute of it, but I'm excited to be a part of all of the sports at Madison, not just one. It's going to be a fun challenge."

Rebel netters fall to Tigers to close 13-3

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Southwestern girls tennis closed out the regular season by dropping just its third match of the season Monday 3-2 at Lawrenceburg.

TENNIS ROUNDUP

The Rebels lost both doubles and the No. 1 singles. However, the No. 2 doubles between Southwestern's Audrey Bare and Ally Voorhies and Lawrenceburg's Ryleigh Offutt and Ellie McAndrew couldn't have been any closer as the duo fell in a 6-7, (7-5) 7-6 (7-5), 11-9 to tip the outcome to the Tigers.

"Disappointing loss on the road tonight," Southwestern coach Kenny Garrett said. "We are very young and just have not figured out yet that you have to be ready to play every single match. You just can't continue to make the same mistakes and expect a different outcome. Tennis is a sport where you must make the opponent make the mistakes to have a chance to win and be successful."

Southwestern's wins were by Elle Ford over Jasmyn Blackborn 6-2, 7-5 at No. 2 singles and Autumn Harmon over Evelyn McAndrew 6-1, 6-3 at No. 3 singles.

Julia Worcester lost to Lawrenceburg's Grace Safaviyan 6-1, 7-5 at No. 1 singles and the Rebels' No. 1 doubles team of Ashlyn Cloud and Trinity Stoner lost 6-1, 6-1 to the Tigers' Sheridan Houze and Calli Pope.

Southwestern (13-3) was to get a chance to avenge one of its three losses Wednesday against Greensburg in the opening round of the IHSAA Greensburg Sectional.

Cubs fall 4-1 in finale

Madison girls tennis dropped a 4-1 decision to Scottsburg on Monday in the Cubs' regular-season finale.

Kourtney Neukam picked up a 6-2, 6-4 win over the Warriorettes' Kinley Harmon for Madison's lone win but each of the other four matches were tight until the end.

"Our seniors fought very hard tonight, and two positions ended up in third sets," Madison coach Kelsey Shaw said. "I'm really proud of all our girls tonight, especially our seniors, Wiley Gross, Emma Lostutter, Grace Brautigam and Renée Walker. They have all played hard all season, but they really left everything on the courts tonight. It didn't turn out the way we wanted, but it made us better. Now we can focus on sectionals."

Gross dropped a 6-2, 6-2 decision to Lyla Waskom at No. 2 singles and Lostutter went down 6-3, 4-6, 6-2 to Elle Fleenor at No. 3 singles. In doubles, Olivia Kelley and Walker lost 6-3, 6-6 (7-5), 6-3 to Eliza Mead and Kaytie Ray at No. 1 and Brautigam and Ana Reiff fell 6-1, 6-2 to Lindsey Pfaffenbach and Brinley Soloe at No. 2.

In exhibition doubles, Taylor Harsin and Caroline Kirby lost 7-5.

Madison opens the IHSAA Sectional at Greensburg today against the winner of Southwestern vs. Greensburg. Today's other semifinal will feature three-time defending sectional champion Shawe Memorial against Jennings County.

Cubs beat up Generals, get beat up by Knights

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier Sports Editor
mcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Madison pitcher Abby Moore carried a perfect game into the fifth inning and Hannah Uhl belted a three-run home run in an 11-1, five-inning softball rout of Clarksville Monday at Lady Cubs Field in Madison.

SOFTBALL ROUNDUP

Moore record five of her six total strikeouts over the first four innings while Madison played error-free defense and racked up 11 runs to stand just three outs away from a perfect game win.

That all changed quickly in the fifth when the Generals' leadoff batter, Emily Perez, lined a double to right-center field to break up the perfect game and Nahriel Gaines smacked an RBI single to center to end the shut out.

However, Gaines was thrown out trying to advance to second on the hit and while Moore put the next batter on with her only walk of the game and hit another batter with two outs, she then fanned Madison Ferrell for the third out to end the game after a brief mound visit by Madison coach Tony Ralston.

"I talked to them in the fifth inning and told them we want to finish. We wanted to end it and I thought Abby did a good job of regathering herself out there. I thought she pitched a real nice game here," Ralston said. "I knew she was working a perfect game but I don't know if she knew it. But she's been real steady all year long and she's started to pick up a little momentum going toward sectional and that really helps us out a lot. She worked ahead today and that's made for really good results for us."

While Moore and the Madison defense were keeping the Generals off the basepaths, the Cubs were generating multiple runs in every inning but the bottom of the fourth and by that time Madison had scored five in the first and three each in the second and third to post the required 10-run lead (11-0) to end the game early with a another stop of Clarksville in the fifth.

Madison rapped out 11 runs on seven hits and five Clarksville errors with Bailey Dyer starting the onslaught with a single to lead off the first before advancing to second on a wild pitch and third on a stolen base. She scored when Kennedy Stidham reached on an error and courtesy runner Jalyn Honaker then went to third on a wild pitch and scored what proved to be the game-winning run on another error on Emma Cammack's fly ball to left field.

Cammack went to third on the error and scored on another wild pitch. Uhl walked, Paige Young reached on a third error and Moore drove in both with a bloop single to shallow center field for the 5-0 lead.

Two more Clarksville errors and an RBI single by Morgan Cahall led to three runs in the second and Uhl's three-run homer capped Madison's scoring in the third.

According to Ralston, it was the kind of performance from Moore, the Madison defense and the Cubs' hitters that the team needs with the regular season winding down and the sectional tourney coming up next week — especially after letting Friday's game at Henryville slip away when the Hornets scored four runs in the bottom of the seventh to pull out a 10-9 win.

"They let that one slip away but we came out and took care of business today," Ralston said. "We've been playing pretty well. We had a tough break Friday night and let that one slip away but we've been playing pretty well. The attitudes are good and we've been pretty steady. I told the girls I was proud of the way the team played today. It's the Monday after prom and with Friday's loss we bounced back and we came out ready to play.

The Cubs are scheduled to play three more games this week and the competition will only get tougher but Ralston said he's counting on that final push to prepare his team for sectional.

"We've got a good mindset and we're getting pretty confident at the plate. I think we're ready," Ralston noted. "Our schedule prepares us for sectional and our girls know that, so we will be ready to go."

Madison, now 9-14 on the season, hosts South Dearborn Tuesday before visiting Switzerland County Thursday and Providence Friday. The Cubs will then host Greensburg in the IHSAA Class 3A Sectional Tournament on Monday at Lady Cubs Field.

On Tuesday, visiting South Dearborn scored early and often in an 18-1 win over Madison.

The Knights scored a run in the first inning and five in the second to go ahead 6-0. A seven-run fourth and a five-run fifth ended the game on the mercy rule.

"Our team tonight struggled in all phases and that's disappointing considering we have been playing pretty well," said Ralston. "It's not going to be any easier tomorrow at Jeff."

Madison was limited to just two hits — an RBI triple by Bailey Dyer and a single by Peyton Holt — and Holt scored the Cubs' lone run.

Bailee Schmidt took the loss for Madison, allowing 13 runs — nine earned — on 13 hits in four innings with a walk and a strikeout. Stidham worked the final inning and allowed five runs — just two earned — on three hits with three walks.

Madison (9-15) was to visit Jeffersonville Wednesday.

Rebels beat Pioneers, fall to No. 3 Shiners

Southwestern softball scored eight runs in the bottom of the third inning to pull away to a 10-5 win over Providence at home on Monday.

The Rebels got only five hits in the game but drew 10 walks and took advantage of two Pioneer errors to claim the win.

"This wasn't a perfect night for us but was a good night for our seniors, Abby (Ralston), Lakyn (Wilson) and Kassey (Worcester). Any time you can get a win on senior night it's a good night. Especially for these three seniors that have meant so much to our program over the years," Southwestern coach Duane Ralston said. "We had a couple base running errors that cost us a couple runs early but we were able to capitalize on a some big hits from Olivia Bruce, Trinity McLain and Morgan Mahoney. It's good to see these girls stepping up when we need them."

Bruce went 2-for-2 with a double, a run and an RBI while McLain had a hit and two RBIs, Mahoney had a hit and scored two runs with an RBI and Ralston had a hit and scored twice.

Lakyn Wilson pitched the first four and a third innings and allowed three runs on five hits with six strikeouts and four walks to get the win. Abby Ralston worked the final two and two-thirds innings and allowed two unearned runs on one hit.

On Tuesday, Class A No. 3 Rising Sun rolled the Rebels on a 13-0 six-hitter in the continuation of an Ohio River Valley Conference game originally suspended by rain on May 1 with the Shiners leading 2-0 after two innings.

"We struggled defensively after resuming the game but we did get off the bus swinging the bats against a very good Rising Sun team," Duane Ralston said. "We just couldn't capitalize on them and their hitters were just too much for us tonight. We'll regroup and prepare for Switzerland County, a potential sectional opponent, tomorrow."

Shiners' ace Sydney Pitts struck out six and walked none en route to the shutout win. She and the Rising Sun defense also scattered the Rebels' six hits well enough to keep Southwestern scoreless throughout.

Southwestern's biggest threat came in the fourth when Abby Ralston and Abby Fulton hit back-to-back singles with one out and Bruce doubled to center field but by then Ralston had been caught stealing and McLain then flied out in right field foul territory to strand Fulton and Bruce.

Ralston, trailing 2-0 on May 1, took the loss but Kailey Burns pitched two innings for the Rebels Tuesday and gave up seven runs — all earned — on nine hits with one strikeout. Both Ralston and Burns gave up home runs.

The Shiners (19-2, 11-0 ORVC) six in the third and five in the fourth to end the game early. The onslaught included a two-run home run by Cora Poling that proved to be the game winner in the second inning and a two-run shot by Sydney Bostic in the third.

Southwestern (9-9, 3-5 ORVC) was to host Switzerland County Wednesday.

Other Games ...

Switzerland County's softball team dropped a 4-3 decision at Jac-Cen-Del on Monday.

The Pacers (11-6, 7-4 ORVC) was to visit Southwestern Wednesday.

Cummins helps Heritage Trail

Day of caring volunteers join in work at Conservancy

By ELISABETH MOORE

The Heritage Trail Conservancy was host to a Cummins Day of Caring event Tuesday, May 14, at the Heritage Park by the Ohio River.

Cummins is an American Fortune 500 corporation that designs, manufactures and distributes engines, filtration and power generation products. Cummins has two plants in southern Indiana, at Columbus and Seymour, so when the Day of Caring event was planned, nearly 970 Cummins employees chose to volunteer in almost 190 projects across southern Indiana.

Both Cummins plants shut down for the day to send volunteers to places that can use any kind of help. At the Heritage Trail Conservancy, the help included painting, cutting wood, moving rocks, making picnic tables and ultimatly beautifying the many trails that the Conservancy helps keep up.

There were 35 Cummins employees who helped, including local residents, native Hoosiers and some who came from another country to work at Cummins. Each employee volunteered to stay at the Conservancy for the majority of the day to tackle various projects, essentially working an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. job.

The Cummins Day of Caring is part of their Every Employee, Every Community initiative, which encourages Cummins employees to participate in corporate responsibility and enables each employee to use at least four work hours to contribute to local projects and partners.

Volunteers mosty helped spruce up Heritage Park, which is at the west end of Vaughn Drive where Vernon Street turns north, and Heritage Trail, which is throughout downtown Madison along the riverfront trailing toward Madison Hospital on the hilltop.

Other Cummins employees, including Regina Barringer, Gary Beshears, Jess Stevens and Ross Kunkler, helped chop wood. The volunteers who helped May 14 either came from the Columbus or Seymour Cummins plants.

A few locations along the Heritage Trail required moving big rocks to make the trail safer. Nick Welch and Joey Wilkerson used wheelbarrows to make their jobs easier. Thirty-five Cummins employees volunteered to help at the Heritage Trail Conservancy.

Southwestern Honor Society

Southwestern has inducted 19 new members into the Harvey Wiley Chapter of the National Honor Society. New members were selected based on their accomplishments in four key areas: scholarship, leadership, character and service. Students had to earn at least a 3.5 GPA and then go through an application process. Each student was evaluated by a group of teachers and designated as qualified or unqualified for membership based on character, service and leadership experiences. PETS OF THE WEEK

ANNIE

Annie loves people of all ages, so a home with kids would be great. She loves to play fetch and appears to be house trained. Annie may be best with a home without other pets. She is okay with some dogs while on a leash, but cannot deal with the dog park. Annie is a four year old, 53 lbs. Pit Bull Terrier mix with a brindle coat, a white chest and white socks on her feet. She is spayed, up-to-date on vaccinations and is $55 to adopt. She is microchipped, but due to it being an ordeal to get the registration changed over, plan to keep the shelter up-to-date with your phone number and address changes rather than registering the microchip. Annie is heartworm and Lyme negative, so she is a healthy gal.

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has 13 dogs or puppies, and 17 cats or kittens available. Pictures of additional pets waiting for adoption can be viewed at www.sisaveapet.com

Normal shelter hours are Monday, Thursday and Friday from noon to 5 p.m., Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 3 p.m. It is closed Tuesday. The shelter number is (812) 273-1788 and the email is jcas39@seidata.com

All cats and kittens are $45 off unless they are already spay or neutered. Discount is courtesy of the Animal Shelter and the Jefferson County Humane Society.

Volunteers are always welcome at the shelter. Individuals must be at least 16 years old to volunteer. Volunteers can help with everyday cleaning, answering phones, and exercising the pets. Contact the shelter for details.

The shelter is a registered organization with the Kroger Community Rewards program. To support the shelter, register a Kroger card at www.krogercommunityrewards.com and enter FL919.

Support the shelter while walking your dog. Use the "Walk for a Dog" or "Woof-Trax" app available through the App Store or Google Play. For each mile walked, a donation is made to the shelter.

A list of needed items can be found on the shelter website. Donations can be mailed to 2727 Hannah Drive, Madison, IN 47250 or dropped off during shelter hours. The shelter also accepts aluminum and steel cans, which are recycled and the proceeds put toward the medical fund. Recent donations have helped get treatment for a beagle with a skin infection and a cat with wounds. The shelter asks that aluminum and steel donations be separated. Steel cans should also be rinsed before they are dropped off. Cans can be dropped off at anytime in a bin located on the east side of the shelter.

Those with missing pets can stop by the shelter, call or email a complete description of the pet, when and where it was last seen, the owner's name and contact information, and a picture of the pet. Pets are held for three days before they are made available for adoption.

Animals should not be abandoned outside of the shelter or dropped off at the shelter after hours.

For animal control issues in Madison, call (812) 265-3347. For animal control issues in Hanover and Jefferson County, call (812) 265-2648.

DOMINO

Domino recently had kittens at the beginning of May and needs a foster home with her four kittens until they are weaned. She is a loving and attentive kitty who loves to play. She loves to play bite, so it may be best if there are no young children in the household. Domino is a one to three year old Tuxedo black and white cat who looks like she is wearing a mask.

Jefferson County Extension Homemakers Achievement Day

The Jefferson County Extension Homemakers had their Achievement Day Friday, May 10, at the 4-H Fairgrounds Community Building.

President Carol Bell welcomed everyone and vice president Frannie Phillips led the group in reciting the Homemakers Creed.

Bell led the Pledge of Allegiance and read an article on the importance of attitude. Roll Call was taken by Dorothy Canada and Phillips gave the officer's report.

New officers were installed with Bell as president, Phillips as vice president, Canada as secretary, Dianna Giltner as treasurer, Janet McMahan as assistant treasurer, Marie Black as public relations and Dorothy Morgan as parliamentarian.

Christopher Fogle gave a program on emergency preparedness. Marjorie Renschler gave table grace and Kay Dunham gave a remembrance for departed members.

Awards were distributed throughout the meeting. For nametags, Saluda received first place, Smyrna second place and Sunshine third place. For scrapbook, Smyrna received first place, Sunshine second place and Saluda third place.

For centerpiece, Smyrna received first place, Sunshine second place and Saluda third place. For lesson plans, Sunshine received first place, Smyrna second place and Saluda third place.

Black won the cultural arts award with her Sun Bonnet Sue Quilt. Door prizes were also given out.

The Jefferson County Extension Homemakers thanks the Extension staff for their support: Lonnie, Angie, Bess, Kasie and Jason.

NOTICE OF OPPORTUNITY TO HOLD A PUBLIC HEARING

RE: C.Y. 2020 Capital Assistance to purchase replacement vehicles for Catch-A-Ride

1. Notice is hereby given that Historic Hoosier Hills will provide an opportunity for a public hearing for the purpose of considering a grant for which federal capital assistance under Section 5311 of the Federal Transit Act, as amended, is being sought. Any person interested in a hearing must submit a request in writing that a hearing be held by Historic Hoosier Hills within a ten (10) day period, after the publication of this notice.

The project is generally described as follows:

A. Description of Project

• In CY 2020, Historic Hoosier Hills will apply for capital assistance to support Catch-A-Ride public transportation

• Funds will be used to purchase two replacement medium transit vehicles

• Estimated project cost for the vehicles is $101,400; 80% federal and 20% local match

2. If a hearing is requested and scheduled, Historic Hoosier Hills will afford an opportunity for interested person, agencies and private transportation providers to be heard with respect to the social, environmental, and economic aspects of the grant. Interested persons may submit orally or in writing evidence and recommendations with respect to said grant at the public hearing.

3. A copy of the application is currently available for public inspection LifeTime Resources, Inc. (13091 Benedict Drive, Dillsboro, IN 47018)

BRIDGE

LOTS OF RUFFS TO SUPPLY TRICKS

Howard Ruff, who was known for his caustic quotes, said, "Self-education is the key to making wise decisions about your life, your money and your future."

There are times at the bridge table when you just have to take an educated guess. For example, in today's deal, North made a takeout double over West's one-spade opening, South advanced with two hearts, and it was North's turn again. What should he have done?

Having no idea how to find out if partner had the rounded-suit queens, he just blasted into six hearts. Then he sat back to watch his partner struggle! How should South have played after West led the spade king?

Declarer hoped clubs would split 3-3, but realized that if they were the more likely 4-2, he would have to ruff them good, and probably would need a diamond ruff in hand too. His plan was to lose only one trump trick.

South ruffed the spade lead on the board and cashed the heart ace, club ace and club king before leading the club three.

East followed the general principle of not ruffing a loser in front of declarer. (If East ruffs and returns his last trump, declarer has two hearts remaining with which to ruff a club and a diamond.)

When East discarded a spade, South ruffed, crossed to the diamond king and led the club eight. After East pitched his last spade, declarer ruffed, led a diamond to the ace, ruffed the diamond six and trumped a spade.

East overruffed and returned a diamond, but South ruffed on the board, cashed the heart king and took trick 13 with the club two!

‘Don’t Talk to the Actors’ this weekend

Courier staff report

The Madison Community Players will perform “Don’t Talk to the Actors” this weekend at the Jefferson County Democratic Party Headquarters on Main Street.

Admission will be $10 at the door on Friday, May 17 and Saturday, May 18 for the show beginning at 7 p.m. and Sunday, May 19 for the show at 2:30 p.m.

Playscripts describes the show: “The best laid plans go awry when the cast and crew of a Broadway-bound play resort to manipulation, diva-like behavior, and chaotic abandon to get what they want. Fledgling playwright Jerry Przpezniak and his fiancee are a couple of Buffalo greenhorns suddenly swept up in the whirlwind of New York’s theater scene when Jerry’s play is optioned for the big money, ego-driven world of Broadway.

“It’s a young playwright’s dream, but the crazy characters and dilemmas they encounter are the things theatrical nightmares are made of.”

“Don’t Talk to the Actors” was written by Tom Dudzick. The show last about two hours.

Cast & Crew:

Sam Swartz as Lucinda Shaw; Morgan Henry as Jerry Przpezniak; Blythe Couch as Arlene Wyniarski; Michelle Lawson as Mika Policzek; Jeremy Hendrix as Curt Logan; Julie Swartz as Beatrice Pomeroy; Tami Dubuque is the director; and Alex Hall is a tech.

Significant other of five years hinders growth and well-bei

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: I’ve been with my significant other for five years. We’re each other’s “person.” I’m more comfortable with him than I’ve ever been with anyone else, but there’s a catch. We’ve noticed a trend: that I’m better at taking care of myself when he’s not around. It’s not a conscious thing. I’m not intentionally sulking. But it seems that my depression and anxiety come out of the woodwork — I’ve been stable for quite a while — when I’m alone with him. When we’re apart — for example, one of us goes out of town — I flourish. I’m confused by this pattern. I don’t understand why someone I am so comfortable with seems to hinder my growth and well-being. He is a wonderful, loving partner. I have no complaints about how he treats me. We have awesome communication and talk about absolutely everything. And yet, a part of me feels trapped. I don’t want us to break up, but maybe we’re no longer a good fit. — Dating but Drifting

Dear Dating but Drifting: Perhaps what you’re feeling is the result of codependence, counterintuitive as it might sound. It’s possible you only feel like you can give yourself permission to focus on your own well-being when he’s not there. Check out Mental Health America’s “Characteristics of Co-Dependent People” at http://www.mentalhealthamerica.net/co-dependency, and see if you recognize yourself in the list of traits.

Alternatively, maybe your relationship is simply in need of a refresh. Take a trip with your boyfriend; try a new hobby together. Sometimes, all it takes is shaking up the routine a bit to remember why you fell in love with someone.

Finally, it very well could be that this relationship has run its course, and your anxiety is telling you it’s time to move on. If that is the case, it is better to rip that Band-Aid off sooner than later.

Dear Readers: Recently, I printed a letter from “Missing Out on Friends,” who wanted to adopt a cat but wondered what would happen to the cat should something happen to her. I asked you all to share any insights, and share you did.

Dear Annie: As a 56-year old Aspie, I found myself in the same predicament. I eventually did adopt two cats, so I’d like to offer some advice:

1) Adopting an older cat is a good idea. But keep in mind this means budgeting for veterinary expenses. I pay about $150 every six months for a veterinary exam and blood tests.

2) Buy a wallet that opens to show two vinyl windows, one for your driver’s license and one for a homemade card that says “Notice to Emergency Responders” and shows a picture of your cat. Explain on the back of the card that you live alone, and give instructions for whom you’d like to take care of your cat in an emergency (probably your vet). This is why it’s important to choose a vet with boarding facilities.

3) Prepare and post a chart in your home with a picture of your cat, list of medications, feeding instructions and hiding places. Include your veterinarian’s name and phone number, and the shelter you trust the most to take care of your cat in the unlikely event of your premature death. Ask your veterinarian for recommendations about the local shelters.

Dear Annie: As a longtime volunteer for a kitty rescue, your advice to volunteer at a shelter was spot on. Not only will the kitties provide companionship, so will the other volunteers. We have people volunteering for us as cage cleaners, socializers, adoption staff, special events coordinators — you name it, we need people. We also have a program called Senior to Senior, in which senior citizens become permanent fosters for senior cats. — Ann A. in Connecticut
